

The graph illustrates the dynamic behavior of a network over time. Nodes 1 through 5 maintain a low, stable count, while nodes 6 through 10 exhibit a more pronounced growth and subsequent decline. The peak for most nodes occurs between 400 and 500 seconds, after which the network structure undergoes a significant reorganization, leading to a sharp drop in the number of nodes for the higher-indexed group.

